County librarians continue 22 years of service. Shown above are Mrs. J. A. Smith, former head librarian; Mrs. J. Newton Jennings, who resigned in May as librarian, and Mrs. A. R. Harwood, Jr., new county librarian. In front is Mrs. Verna Conner, assistant librarian, charging out a book to a young patron.

Library Offers Many Services

Since the first of the month, Mrs. A. R. Harwood, Jr., has been serving as "new Librarian, taking the place of Mrs. J. Newton Jennings who resigned in May. Mrs. Harwood returns to the post of head librarian after an absence of some years.

She was the first librarian to use the Appomattox County Library Building following its dedication in 1940. Her assistants at that time were the late Miss Gertrude Ranson, Mrs. Henry Beard, and Mrs. Larry Young.

When interviewed this week, Mrs. Harwood remarked, "Many people do not realize how many services our library offers."

"We are the center for all audio - visual aids such as slides, film strips, movies, records, and magazines. In addition we have an inter - loan agency with Longwood College and the State Library."

One of the other services of the local library is to circulate books to county schools. Mrs. Harwood takes books to Spout Spring, Vera, Oakville, Pamplin, and Evergreen.

The book collection has grown to total of 16,938 titles.

School library books are purchased with State-aid. Current titles for adults are purchased each month according to need.

Mrs. Harwood stated in her interview that many improvements have been made in the schools, but feels that there is need for additional space in the County Library Building.

"The children's room needs to be moved from upstairs to the ground level," she added.

Since her graduation in the School of Library Science, College of William and Mary, Mrs. Harwood has served, in addition to Appomattox County, as librarian of the Claude Swanson, Jr. Hub in Arlington; and as first city supervisor of school libraries in Norfolk. She also served as summer instructor in the School of Library Science at William and Mary for three summers teaching Children's Literature, Adolescent Literature, and School Library Administration. During these years she also served as Chairman of the Library Section of the Virginia Education Association.

Mrs. Verna Conner continues as library assistant, a post she has held for the past five years.

The list of former librarians includes many well known names: Charles Ellis, of Rustburg; Mrs. Carolyn Moses Lusardi; Mrs. Kemp Nixon; Mary Rives Black; Mrs. J. A. Smith; and Mrs. Spurlock.

"Librarians are among those who have served as librarians.

The first library patron to check out a book from the new library building in 1940 was Mrs. Lindsay Crawley. The name of the book is "Recollections" by William K. Bruce.

ABC Profits Swell County Town Treasuries

Appomattox County received $2,500 last month from state whisky profits under the profit-distribution plan set up by the Virginia General Assembly.

The town of Appomattox received $3,463, approximately the same amount as was received a year ago. Each locality received a sum equal to its 1960 population multiplied by almost $1.50.

Under the profit - distribution formula, the state gets the first $750,000 of net profits from the operation of state liquor stores. Of the remainder, two - thirds goes to the localities and one-third to the state.

Checks totaling $11,605,645 for the localities' share of state whisky profits, including $1,816,189 from the state's general fund, were mailed out from Richmond.

Exhibits And Good Weather Point To Record Fair Week

Homemakers and farmers, and future homemakers and future farmsrse, too have an opportunity to exhibit their handiwork at the Five County Fair, now in progress at Farmville.

Saturday is Homecoming Day and Closing Night.

Among the many exhibits from Appomattox are those of FHA students at the high school. Sewing, handcraft and food products are on exhibit by Barbara Moore, Janie Paige, Cynthia Richardson, Carolyn Coleman, Barbara Thomas, Patricia Panky, and Jane Williams.

The State Police Investigator said all three are charged with one count of statutory burglary in Amherst.

Rebels Roll Over Rock Hill 20 - 0

by "Buddy" Carson

The Appomattox Rebels, shifting into high gear, about four minutes after the 1962 season began, out classed Rock Hill Academy, of Charlottesville, Friday night, Sept. 7.

G. H. Jamerson took the opening kick off and returned it to the Rebels' thirty yard line. Six plays later the Rebels had their first score of the season with Billy Burke eating up the last thirty yards with a classy jaunt over left tackle.

The Rebels had to settle for six, however, as Jamerson was stopped on a wide sweep in the attempt for the extra point.

Early in the second quarter the Rebels were back at it again. The blue and white took over the ball on their own thirty yard line and mounted a sustained drive of seventy yards, in eleven plays, with Burke and G. H. Jamerson doing most of the hauling.

Jimmy Torrence capped the drive with a sparkling fifteen yard run as he started off right tackle, cut to the left, and behind beautiful blocking, sped in to pay-dirt.

The Rebels made it 13-0 as Jamerson rammed over right tackle for the extra point.

The Rebels kicked off at the beginnne of the second half and for a while it seemed as though the Rock Hill defense was stiffening, but Coach Gordan Bragg's high flying chargers were not to be denied a thrilling finish to a glorious night.

The Rebels took over the ball on their forty-five yard line, early in the fourth quarter, and roared into action once again, this time covering the last twenty-five yards with a spectacular pass play from Jimmy Torrence's pass to John Goin gave the Rebels their twentith point of the night.

The Appomattox victory was due largely to the tremendous line play of the interior lineman, led by Freddie Carter, Bill Bryant and company, assisted by Lawrence Haley, Buddy Wilcox, Elmer Phelps, Joe Mayberry, and Phillip Lucado.

Carter, having one of the most sparkling performances of his career, time and again opened up tremendous holes for his back field teammates, and excited the large crowd of approximately 1,006 with his stunning defensive play as he roamed the field like a demon, pulling in about 30 tackles.

The determined Rock Hill Club fought savagely throughout the contest, but never got inside the Rebels thirty five yard line.

Although certain individuals shone, it was a tremendous team effort, and Coach Bragg very aptly climaxed a fruitful night with, "We looked real good."

Enough Is Enough

It is reported that one Appomattox first grader came home from the first day at school and said, "All right, I've been to school now. Tomorrow I'm going fishing."

No business is good business, according to the Appomattox County Rescue Squad. Rescue squad members on duty during the Labor Day week end included Jack Williams, Ralph Arrington, and Lester Tyree, shown above, with the ambulance. They had no call during the long week end. "We are grateful for that", was their short and meaningful comment.

Plans For Rescue Squad Building

First plans are being drawn up by committees in the Appomatox Lions' Club, the Jaycees, the Rescue Squad, and the Appomattox Fire Department for a joint effort to locate a building site and secure funds for a building to house the Rescue Squad's ambulance and equipment — and possibly the Volunteer Fire Department plus a civic meeting room.

Present arrangements for both the Firemen and the Rescue are unsatisfactory according to representatives from each group.

A planning session first called on Friday evening, Sept. 7, will be rescheduled shortly, according to Dr. A. A. Fralrick, of the Lions' Club.

Having installed new lights on the football field last year, the Projects Committee of the Lions' Club has decided to work with these other groups to obtain a new civic building.

"What we need is land in a good location," said Lieutenant Ralph Arrington of the Rescue Squad on Friday night. "Then, we'll be well on our way to a new building."
